Regeneration plan includes a café inside an old London Routemaster

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A CAFÉ inside an old London Routemaster double-decker bus is one of the proposed features of an imaginative scheme to redevelop a disused council staff car park.

It is part of plans by Haringey Council to transform the former Station Road car park and adjacent empty local authority offices into a creative and artistic hub to regenerate Wood Green.

The Wood Green Campus Project will rejuvenate the vacant space providing workshops, exhibition space, creative studios and offices, micro allotments, the cafe-in-a-bus and a central square for market pitches and cultural events.

The council has already secured £580,000 of Greater London Authority funding towards the scheme, which will create 30 jobs and is scheduled to be completed in the spring of next year.

The first phase has already been completed with the opening of the UK's first arts hotel, cafe-bar and restaurant.

The Green Rooms is a social enterprise offering affordable accommodation to people working in the arts.

"This is an exciting project to bring vacant land, a car park and buildings owned by the council back to life and deliver something really vibrant for Wood Green residents," said Joe Goldberg, the council's cabinet member for economic development, social inclusion and sustainability.

"The project is a clear signal that regeneration in the area is starting and will provide local people with more training and employment opportunities and things to do."

Looking to the future: An architect's drawing gives an idea of how the completed development will look

Tidying up: Councillor Peray Ahmet, second from right, and Nicola Dady, fourth from right, founder of Don't Forget the Kids charity with the new Bin It For Good rubbish bins

A rubbish way to raise cash

A SCHEME which aims to reduce litter and raise money for charities was launched in Tottenham on Friday.

The more litter dropped into specially marked Bin It For Good street bins, the larger the sum donated.

The scheme, which is being run jointly by Keep Britain Tidy and Haringey Council, has had significant success where it has been trialled with other local authorities, reducing litter on the streets by 17 per cent.

The first charity in Haringey to benefit from Bin It For Good is Don't Forget the Kids, which supports children up to the age of 17 who have a parent or carer who has cancer.

It was set up by mother-of-two

Nicola Dady from Tottenham, and runs a weekly support group for parents and their children at the Broadwater Children's Centre, in Adams Road, Tottenham.

She attended the launch of the scheme with fellow representatives of the charity and Peray Ahmet, Haringey Council's cabinet member for the environment.

"Bin It For Good will make our pavements, parks and streets cleaner and raise hundreds of pounds for local charities," said Ms Peray.

"This is a brilliant idea by Keep Britain Tidy to get people to drop litter in bins rather than on our streets and it's fantastic Haringey is taking part."

Candidates prepare for by-election

FIVE candidates are set to contest a council by-election for one of the three seats in Tottenham's St Ann's ward next Thursday (October 6).

They are Josh Dixon (Liberal Democrat); Janus Polenceusz (UKIP); Ronald Stewart (Green); Noah Tucker

(Labour); and Ellis Turell (Conservative).

The Haringey Council seat became vacant in August following the resignation of Peter Morton, Labour' former cabinet member for safeguarding adults and disabilities.

The ward, bounded by West Green Road to the north, Stevens Sisters Road to the east and Green Lanes, Harringay in the west, was won by Mr Morton in 2014 with Labour gaining a 734-vote majority over the second-placed Greens.

Available to pick up at: Sainsbury's, Williamson Road, Green Lanes; Tesco, 230 High Road, South Tottenham; Sainsbury's, 867-869 High Road, Tottenham; Asda, 490 High Road Tottenham; Tesco Express, 25 The Broadway, Crouch End; Morrisons, High Road, Wood Green; Sainsbury's, 54-58 High Road, Wood Green; Wood Green Central Library, Wood Green; Alexandra Park Library, Alexandra Park Road, Wood Green; Coombes Croft Library, High Road, Tottenham; Hornsey Library, Haringey Park; Marcus Garvey Library, Tottenham Green Centre, 1 Phillip Lane; Muswell Hill Library, Queens Ave, Muswell Hill; St Ann's Library, Cissbury Road, South Tottenham; Stroud Green Library, Quernmore Road

Tottenham set for £68m cash boost

AMBITIOUS plans to regenerate north Tottenham have taken a step forward with the release of £62million of Greater London Authority funding.

The cash is the second tranche of money earmarked for Haringey Council's housing zone and will help secure delivery of up to 4,800 new homes, a new centre and thousands of new jobs.

The funding will support projects including the High Road West scheme.

The 11-hectare scheme will deliver 1,400 new homes, a public space linking a revamped £14m White Hart Lane railway station to Tottenham Hotspur's new £600m stadium, plus a park, restaurants, bars, cafés, a library and a learning centre as well as a public area to host screenings and community events.

The GLA funding will cover the significant infrastructure and land assembly costs associated with the scheme.

Almost £45m of funding from the first phase of the GLA's housing zone investment has already been committed to help finance plans for the delivery of a new centre and thousands of future homes in Tottenham Hale.

Fire: Man rescued

A MAN was rescued by firefighters after a blaze at a block of flats in Tottenham on Saturday.

Rescuers wearing breathing masks, saved the man in The Roundway.

London Fire Brigade said that only a part of one flat had been damaged by the fire, which was put out by officers from Tottenham fire station.

They were called at 3.26pm and the fire was under control just after 4pm.

The cause of the fire is being investigated.

A 15-YEAR-OLD boy has been charged with attempted murder after a schoolboy was stabbed in Edmonton last week.

The victim – also a 15-year-old boy – suffered a stab wound in the incident in Cambridge Terrace, near Bury Street West, on Wednesday afternoon. He was treated in hospital for his injuries, which were not life-threatening. The accused, who has also been charged with the possession of an offensive weapon, was remanded in custody when he appeared at Highbury Corner magistrates' court on Saturday.

He is due to appear at the Old Bailey on Friday, October 21.

Court throws out second bid to block work on cycle lanes

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS have vowed to fight on despite a second failed High Court bid to stop the controversial £42million Cycle Enfield scheme going ahead.

Save Our Green Lanes applied for an injunction last week to halt construction work for a cycle route which had begun on a stretch of the A105 at Ridge Avenue, Winchmore Hill.

The cycle route will eventually run the length of the main road between Palmers Green and Enfield Town.

But the judge refused to grant a court order on the grounds it was not lawful under the current statute.

A previous legal challenge by the group for a judicial review of the scheme was turned down by a High Court judge last month.

The latest twist in the long-running conflict sparked a war of words between SOGL and Enfield Council this week.

The campaign group claims the council has ignored widespread opposition from residents and businesses who fear trade will be hit across Enfield Town and Southbury Road as well as Hertford Road.

Speaking after the court ruling, group spokeswoman Helen Osman said the campaigners had not given up and warned there "would almost certainly" be further legal action using crowdfunding to meet the costs.

Fighting on: Helen Osman says Save Our Green Lanes is likely to pursue further legal action

She branded the council's consultation "a sham", claiming contractors were already waiting to start work within days of it finishing.

"Basically, they have run roughshod over the wishes of residents," she said. "The council knows that this is desperately unpopular all over the borough. The simple fact is the roads are just too narrow for cycle lanes."

"They are running the cycle lanes down the busiest roads, forcing all vehicles into one lane, and it's going to cause complete chaos. There are going to be more buses stopping, so it's going to be a nightmare," Mrs Osman added.

The council said the scheme had taken account of the comments of people living along the route and had been significantly modified to reflect them.

It said it was confident that Cycle Enfield would transform the borough's town centres, revolutionise transport and hugely benefit businesses.

"Save Our Green Lanes has repeatedly failed to persuade independent judges that there is anything flawed about the A105 Cycle Enfield scheme," said a council spokesman.

"While they [SOGL] have been pursuing this course of action, the council has spent 18 months listening to thousands of residents and businesses to produce a scheme that meets the needs of the vast majority of people in the borough."

"The decision to proceed with the borough-wide Cycle Enfield proposals is fully supported by cabinet," the spokesman added.

Flying visit is no cause for alarm

THE sight of a police spotter plane escorted by three police helicopters flying in close formation in the skies above Enfield thrilled and mystified residents on Sunday.

Puzzled as to the reason why, many resorted to social media to ask if anyone could give an explanation.

That only fuelled speculation including some far-fetched theories that the plane had suffered engine trouble and was being guided in to a safe landing spot or that the aircraft had violated controlled air space and had been intercepted by the 'copters.

The reality was far different, however.

The helicopters, which form part of the National Police Air Service, were flying over the borough on their way into central London to perform a spectacular flypast as one of the events making a memorial service at St Paul's Cathedral in honour of the 4,000 UK police officers who have been killed in the line of duty.

Prince Charles led the National Police Memorial Day service, which commemorates those who have made the ultimate sacrifice. It was attended by 2,000 people, including relatives, colleagues and dignitaries.

Inspector Joe Holness, founder of National Police Memorial Day, said: "National Police Memorial Day unites the country in national recognition of officers who have given us their all."

"It is a significant day of remembrance to ensure our fallen officers must not, and will not, be forgotten."

Roll up, roll up...

By Clare Casey

ROLL up, roll up, the circus tumbles into Edmonton today (Wednesday) and the highlight is a death-defying Globe of Death motorbike stunt.

The heart-stopping act, involves three boys on bikes from Brazil, whizzing around a hamster ball at about 60mph at head height, inches from the ringside seats.

Even with all the thrill and spills of the circus it's this "loop the loop" that is the pièce de résistance. To take a look, go to <http://bit.ly/1MPcwZd>

Ernest Santus and his French family run Santus Circus and they claim it's the blend of "traditional circus with a French flavour" that makes them so popular.

They're the eighth generation of their family to excel in the circus arts.

Each year, a new all-human (animals are a thing of the past) production of the circus takes to the road.

This year's show is called Legends and features international performers from Brazil, Ethiopia, Mongolia, Romania, Morocco, Britain and France.

Shows run for almost two hours and feature rope walking, juggling, trapeze, the Chinese pole, hula hooping, chair balancing, hand-to-hand acrobatics and, of course, the obligatory smattering of clowning around.

The circus opens today under the Big Top at Lee Valley Leisure Centre at Picketts Lock, in Meridian Way, and runs until Sunday, October 2.

Garden party as park racks up two more awards

A PRIZE-WINNING park has picked up two more prestigious awards to notch up a hat-trick of trophies in just three months.

Bury Lodge Gardens, in Bury Street West, Edmonton, scooped the Silver Gilt gong for small parks in the London in Bloom competition.

The award from the Royal Horticultural Society judges parks on high standards of maintenance and variety of plants.

It also received a Level 4 Neighbourhood Award from the RHS praising it for its use of green spaces and events held in the park, including a summer fete and weekend dog training sessions.

The latest awards come just two months after Bury Lodge Gardens shared the gold award with Broomfield Park, in Palmers Green, for the best maintained park in the Enfield in Bloom competition.

"This is the first time we have entered the London in Bloom and RHS awards," said Denise Vallance, chairwoman of Friends of Bury Lodge Park. "We are told that it is rare to be marked so highly on the first attempt."

Volunteers Lynda Cole and Tony Headland received the awards at a London in Bloom ceremony at Pembroke Lodge, in Richmond Park, in south-west London.

"It's brilliant for the park to receive the awards as recognition for all the hard work that has been put in over the years by volunteers who give up their free time," added Denise.

Friends of Bury Lodge Gardens was launched in 2009 and meets every Wednesday when volunteers help out park keeper Mick Brooks with the gardening.

Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment, said: "This is fantastic news and a well-deserved honour for all those – staff and volunteers alike – whose sterling efforts help maintain the high standards that everyone can see within Bury Lodge Park."

THOUSANDS flocked to Enfield Town & Country show at the weekend.

The annual event, which was held in Enfield Town Park, in Cecil Road, on Saturday and Sunday, encourages the community to take part each year.

A number of talented artists performed, including up-and-coming, 17-year-old musician Nathan Smith, from Enfield, and the North London Street Dance Academy, which is based in Enfield.

There were cookery demonstrations, arts and crafts stalls, a motorcycle display by Stunt Monkeys which captivated the crowd, a falconry display and chainsaw carving.

A selection of hot and cold food was also available from across the borough.

Youngsters also enjoyed a bouncy castle, having their faces painted and watching the festival of dogs show, during which the canine participants performed tricks and scurry runs.

Event organiser Michelle Sach said: "The show offers something for everyone. It was a great event and there were so many people walking around with smiles on their faces."

Settling in: Reception year pupils with the new school's headteacher Chris Tofallis

Primary youngsters on parade as new school gets a great reception

A NEW primary school has celebrated its official opening.

Ashmole Primary, which welcomed 60 pupils at the start of the term, hosted the official opening on Friday, at the end of its second week.

The primary is an extension of the "outstanding" Ashmole Academy, in Cecil Road, Southgate.

It will be a two-form-entry school, admitting up to 60 children each year.

The school's opening was welcomed by parents who led a campaign, started in 2013, demanding extra primary school places in the "vacuum" between the boroughs of Enfield and Barnet.

Chris Tofallis, who has been a head in a Hertfordshire school for seven years, said he was excited by the challenges posed by running the new school.

"The new children have settled in very well and are enjoying their new school setting," he said. "Reception is a very important time for children's development and the school will endeavour to ensure that all the children have a successful and fun-filled year where everyone will be very proud of all their achievements."

"There is big demand for a primary school in the area and I am really looking forward to the job."

The new school will have close links with Ashmole Academy, which, Mr Tofallis added, would be a huge benefit.

The temporary building stands next to the secondary school, separated by secure fencing.

The site houses the two new reception classes as well as the school office, the headteacher's office and a group and medical room as well as an outdoor play area.

Theresa Villiers, the MP for Chipping Barnet, cut the ribbon at the ceremony on Friday as children released balloons.

Inquest into hospital patient's death

By Dave Speck

dave.speck@nlhnews.co.uk

AN investigation is to take place into whether hospital surgeons could have acted earlier to save the life of a 53-year-old Enfield woman.

Koula Christou was found to be suffering from internal bleeding on the day she died at Barnet Hospital on January 27 this year.

Yet it is claimed that she was last on the list for an endoscopy and had to wait a further several hours before a decision was made to operate – during which time she suffered a cardiac arrest.

Andrew Walker, senior coroner for north London, is now set to hold an inquest into the circumstances surrounding Ms Christou's death.

He will ask questions about the provision of interventional radiology services at the hospital.

Emily Palmer, a clinical negligence solicitor of law firm Penningtons Manches, who is acting on behalf of Ms Christou's family, said: "This is a deeply distressing and upsetting case for the family. It's hoped that the family's questions regarding Koula's sad death will be answered during the coronial process and help them come to terms with their loss."

A statement issued by Penningtons Manches following a pre-inquest review held on Wednesday last week states that Ms Christou had spent nearly four weeks as an inpatient at Barnet Hospital before she suffered a gastrointestinal bleed on January 26, 2016.

It says: "At 9.49am on January 27 medical staff decided that Ms Christou required an endoscopy, but she was last on the list for that day. The endoscopy, which took place at 3.45pm, confirmed that she was actively bleeding."

"Following the endoscopy, the medical staff recommended that Ms Christou undergo an angiogram under the interventional radiology team. However, as there was no provision for such services at Barnet Hospital after 5pm, a decision was made to transfer Ms Christou to another hospital.

"Ms Christou suffered a cardiac arrest at about 7.30pm while waiting for the transfer. It was not until 9.15pm that a decision was made to take Ms Christou to theatre. Unfortunately, her life could not be saved and she passed away at 11.07pm."

The inquest is scheduled to open on October 31 at Barnet Coroner's Court and is likely to last for four days.

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which? Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee."

But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Let there be light: The display in Palmers Green in 2013

Council earmarks £50,000 for new Christmas lights

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD Council will spend £50,000 on new Christmas lights despite having to find millions of pounds in cutbacks.

Austerity measures forced by central government mean the council has to make £56million of cuts by 2020.

But festive decoration plans, unveiled this week, confirm that four Christmas trees will be installed in the borough – in Enfield Town, Palmers Green, Southgate and Cockfosters.

Lights will also be hung on buildings in Edmonton Green and Ponders End will see lights added to park trees.

The council said it had set aside £50,000 to replace current lights and “turn town centres into winter wonderlands to attract shoppers”.

Council cabinet member for economic regeneration and business Alan Sitkin said: “We want to do everything we can to support our town centre businesses during the crucial Christmas period and we will be installing fantastic displays in town centres to brighten them up over the busiest time of the year and get more shoppers into Enfield.”

Mr Sitkin admitted that the council’s current lights had mostly “reached the end of their usable life” and the local authority could not afford to replace them all, which, he said, would cost £200,000.

Instead, the council is asking businesses to donate money or any extra decorations they have to help boost the festive spirit.

Mr Sitkin added: “We simply do not have that money, so we are asking retailers and local businesses who think their areas would benefit from more extensive displays to contribute towards their cost.”

The council says it will cover the costs of fitting, testing, storing and powering the lights funded by retailers and will keep using them in future years.

Businesses who wish to help should call 020 8379 5233, or email michael.farquharson@enfield.gov.uk by October 7.

Fake ‘Viagra’ seized during raids

FAKE “Viagra” has been seized after a sting operation carried out by customs and trading standards officers with sniffer dogs.

More than 100 doses of the erectile dysfunction medications Sildamax and Kamagra Oral Jelly were handed over in a barber’s shop during raids carried out on Friday night last week.

Other illegal goods – non-duty paid tobacco and alcohol – were seized during the same operation across north London.

Enfield Council’s cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson said: “Selling unlicensed medicines is not only illegal, but poses a serious health risk.

“Unlicensed medicines can be extremely dangerous as they may contain impurities and incorrect ingredients, and there is no way of knowing whether they have been manufactured

Seized: Unlicensed medicines may contain impurities and incorrect ingredients to acceptable quality and safety standards.

“Though I appreciate that such products offered in this way may appear tempting, please don’t be fooled.

“These criminals are not interested in your health – just your money.

“Taking any unlicensed medical products in this way is a risk just not worth taking.

“I therefore strongly recommend that anyone who needs advice or treatment for a medical condition, however sensitive, visits their GP and only obtains medical products from reputable high street outlets or online retailers displaying the distance selling logo.”

Anyone who suspects illegal or counterfeit products are being sold in Enfield should contact the council’s trading standards team.

DURING last June's Charles Lamb Festival at All Saints Church, a lecturer was describing the essayist's love of London's 18th-century urban landscape.

My attention wandered to a plaque on the church wall, a war memorial to workers from the Eley's factory.

It reminded me of a lost bit of Edmonton's 20th-century landscape – the Eley's shot tower.

Do you remember it? It looked like a little house on top of a factory chimney.

The landscape at the end of my street has just undergone a disconcerting change.

Broad House, the Edmonton Labour Party headquarters, has suddenly become the garishly decorated sales office of a water-bottling company.

Broad House, named after Edmonton's first Labour MP, was opened by former Prime Minister Clem Attlee in 1954.

The Engineering Union, which then had thousands of members in Edmonton, occupied premises just across Fore Street, in a Victorian house long since prettied up and flogged off.

Nearby, the handsome Co-op building, another institution which many local residents used (and paid for), is now in private hands.

The old Labour movement – party, unions, Co-op – was part of our urban landscape.

It was right-wing, but it had deep roots in the everyday lives of ordinary people.

We need volunteers to help keep children safe

LAS year was a great year for the NSPCC school service.

My volunteers and I reached more primary school children than ever before during our workshops and assemblies – helping to keep them safe from abuse and empowering them to speak out about any worries they may have.

In total, we spoke with more than 12,400 children in Enfield through 87 school visits.

Now the new term has started, my team and I are looking forward to talking to even more children aged between four and 11, but we need your help.

The Speak Out, Stay Safe programme is enormously important as it gives children the language and confidence they need to talk about their worries and the knowledge they need to keep themselves safe.

I can't do that without the help of volunteers. Can you help?

Volunteering is a fantastic way to give something back while also learning new skills and meeting new people.

The NSPCC, and our friendly team of volunteers, give you all the training and support you need to feel confident in your role.

With a minimum commitment of as little as three morning or afternoon visits a month, you can give as much or as little time as you like.

For more information, visit: <http://bit.ly/1NsvZEA>

Or you can email me at caroline.roughley@nspcc.org.uk or call 07710 145 535.

Parking permit holders are getting a raw deal

I PURCHASED an annual car park permit from Enfield Council for the sole purpose of parking in the Leigh Hunt Drive car park in Southgate more than six months ago.

For the first two months there was not a problem getting a parking space every day.

However, since The Grange office block car park at 100 High Street, Southgate, was sold to developers, who are building a Travelodge hotel on the site, all the employers of The Grange now park in the car park in Leigh Hunt Drive by purchasing a pay and display ticket on a daily basis.

As most of the employees start work at 8am this means that the majority of the permit holders who start work at 8.30am in the area cannot find a free space despite having paid in advance.

Permit holders have been in contact with the council asking for designated bays for permit holders.

The council's response to the numerous emails they have received from disgruntled permit holders is as follows:

Enfield Council do not have any car parks with designated permit holder bays. Once the Travelodge hotel has been completed by the summer of 2017, then parking spaces should be more available.

I have no idea how the council has come to this conclusion.

The permits it is selling allow drivers to park in other car parks in the borough of Enfield and there are suggestions that Edmonton car park would be an alternative to Southgate.

Clearly, this is ridiculous and completely impractical.

The council also said it did not know how many drivers were purchasing annual permits for the Leigh Hunt Drive car park.

It said it would discuss the possibility of lifting the parking restrictions in Leigh Hunt Drive itself, but would need to consult all the residents before being able to take this any further.

Clearly, it is highly unlikely that the residents are going to agree to this.

Having spoken to numerous angry permit holders I know for a fact that when they purchased their permit they specifically asked for a permit for the car park in Leigh Hunt Drive.

Even though it has been pointed out that it is taking money from vehicle owners in full knowledge it is selling the spaces twice over and therefore taking money under false pretences the council continues to sell these permits.

Surely if not legally wrong it is morally wrong for the council to continue to sell permits in the full knowledge that it is extremely unlikely that there will be a space to park in.

Labour must be having a laugh

NICE to see the Labour Party still has a sense of humour.

Councillor Daniel Anderson has cycle lanes nobody wants and has cut bin collections which nobody wants.

That's real forward thinking. In fact, it's so wonderful that hopefully the Labour council will be evicted come the next election.

Our MP is failing her constituents

IT'S been well over a year since the general election and therefore a chance to assess the performance so far of our Enfield North MP Joan Ryan. The numbers do not make for good reading.

Ms Ryan has turned up to only 55.6 per cent of votes in the House of Commons. According to independent website TheyWorkForYou.com, this is "well below average among MPs".

To put that in context, Nick de Bois, whom Joan Ryan replaced in May last year, voted in 78.8 per cent of divisions over the five years he served as an MP.

Perhaps Ms Ryan has been kept busy by the work she has been undertaking for Global Partners Governance Practice Ltd, for which she has been paid £3,550 so far, according to the Register of Interests.

Another public service website, WriteToThem.com, finds that she has responded to only 51 per cent of messages sent by residents.

Maybe this is the reason Joan Ryan felt it was appropriate to claim £2,250 of taxpayers' money for "services to improve online engagement with constituents".

Using social media platforms like Facebook and Twitter is free – quite what £2,250 is providing is anyone's guess. The basic duty of every MP is to represent their constituents in parliament – a duty in which Joan Ryan is clearly failing.

Businesses sold illegal cosmetics

Magistrates hand out fines totalling £30,000

FOUR businesses which sold illegal cosmetics containing banned ingredients including cancer-causing chemicals have been fined a total of £30,000.

The string of prosecutions follow a clampdown on unsafe ingredients in Enfield last year when 3,727 items were suspended from sale, with 30 different products being taken off the shelves and 1,164 cosmetics destined for the shredder.

Trading standards experts searched 11 stores across the borough for unsafe cosmetics which failed to meet EU rules as part of Operation Trawl.

Shops were told about the legal obligations and ordered to remove goods which failed to meet the standards from their shelves.

Trading standards officers went back to the shops, seized any remaining items and destroyed them. Four companies were prosecuted.

Magistrates fined Edmonton business Kannan Stores Ltd and its directors Kanagasabapathy Mannivannan and Kanagasabapathy Mathisooddy £20,025 on September 11 after they admitted five breaches of cosmetics regulations. Tottenham magistrates' court also imposed costs of £1,762 on the Fore Street business.

Shaba Hair and Cosmetics (UK) Ltd was prosecuted for selling a hair dye which contained a banned carcinogen, O-Aminophenol. The business, which is based in South Mall, Edmonton, and director Mohammad Imran pleaded guilty to cosmetics regulation breaches and were fined £1,875, with £720 costs.

Afromart Mini Market Ltd, in Hertford Road, and director Eddie Frimpong were fined £2,945, with £250 costs, after admitting breaching cosmetics regulations.

Beautyqueens Cosmetics

(Wood Green) Ltd, in Fore Street, Edmonton, and director Mohammed Ziarab were ordered to pay £2,450, with £600 costs, after admitting breaches of the cosmetics regulations.

He said: "It beggars belief that traders can be told that a product is potentially hazardous to health, asked to remove it from sale, but then go ahead and attempt to sell it."

Mr Anderson added: "I am delighted that they have been hammered with big fines by the court."

EU rules mean that importers have to register cosmetics on the Cosmetics Product Notification portal and provide proof they have had the product assessed and passed by a qualified expert. They have to show that the cosmetics do not contain any banned ingredients and are made in a safe environment.

There are 1,300 substances banned in cosmetics in the EU, compared with just 12 in the United States.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

A piece of cake: The Macmillan team at last year's successful fundraising event at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Edmonton

Cancer support charity puts the coffee on for fundraiser

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

CANCER services for patients and families will be showcased at a coffee and cake morning at North Middlesex University Hospital.

The event on Friday (September 30) is designed to let people know what's on offer and give them a chance to ask questions over a cuppa and a slice of cake in an informal setting.

It's part of Macmillan Cancer Support's annual World's Biggest Coffee morning, which has raised £138million in its 26-year history with coffee mornings up and down the country.

There will be more than 20 services based at the hospital and in the community at the coffee morning between 9am and 1pm.

People can get advice and support while helping to raise money for cancer patients and their families.

There will be specialist advice on offer from clinical nurse specialists in head, neck, breast, urological, upper gastro-intestinal, skin, skin, stomach and rectal cancers during the coffee morning in the atrium of the hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

There will also be advice from dieticians from Macmillan Cancer Support and radiography, clinical psychology and chaplaincy teams will talk about their work.

Anyone suffering from stress and tension is in for a treat as staff from the hospital's Helen Rollason Centre will be offering massages to visitors.

The centre provides alternative therapies including aromatherapy, reflexology and counselling to patients and their carers.

There will also be fitness tips from experts at the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation.

Other exhibitors include a benefits adviser from Macmillan Cancer, volunteers from SGV (Support Guidance Voice) Haringey, which was set up by a cancer nurse and people who had experienced cancer, and the Enfield Carers Centre, based in Baker Street, Enfield.

Also there will be representatives from Nightingale Cancer Support Centre, in Lancaster Road, Enfield, and Cherry Lodge Cancer Support Centre, in Barnet.

The event is being organised by the hospital's Macmillan Cancer Support centre.

Manager Gillian Constance said: "It's a great chance for local people to find out more about cancer services, have a chat and enjoy a slice of cake."

It's just one of a series of Macmillan Coffee Morning events across Enfield on Friday, Barnet Lock and Security, in Baker Street, will be putting the kettle on from 9am and it will be coffee time at Hammonds Opticians, in London Road, from 10am.

Details about other events can be found at www.coffee.macmillan.org.uk

Downton star turns out for charity walk

Getting in the swing: Walkers limber up before the start of the fundraiser in Trent Park on Sunday

FUNDRAISERS were joined by Lady Rose in Downton Abbey, is patron of the North London Motor Neurone Disease Association.

She accompanied more than 140 adults and youngsters on a five-kilometre walk around the park.

"Lily is ever so supportive and so down to earth," said association committee member Tina Di Fruscia.

"Her uncle died of the disease and she together with her family do all they can to help."

Lily donated prizes for a raffle as did actor Eddie Redmayne, who played renowned physicist Steven Hawking, who suffers from motor neurone disease, in the film The Theory of Everything.

"We expect to raise more than £2,400 from the walk which will be go towards adaptions, transport needs and support for those affected by the disease," added Tina.

History in the making

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS are being invited to get involved in the annual Black History Month celebrations taking place across Enfield.

A series of events will be held throughout October in recognition of the contribution made by the African diaspora by the across the borough and the UK.

There will be a showcase of live performances, workshops and music honouring the history, achievements and culture of the black community.

The Pineapple Punch Festival will offer free starter sessions in African martial arts and feature live music at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, on Saturday, October 8. The Jon Daniel Afro Superheroes exhibition will also be showcased at the festival highlighting the importance of black role models and icons.

Mr Daniel became a collector of comics, action figures, games and memorabilia of prominent black people.

The exhibition reflects his journey of self-discovery and identity through his collection of childhood action figures and inspiration from real-life heroes.

Other events will be staged at libraries across the borough and at the Millfield Arts Centre, in Silver Street, Edmonton.

There will also be comedies, drama productions, lectures and iconic films celebrating black history.

"Black History Month is an opportunity to celebrate the enormous contribution the black community has made to the United Kingdom and Enfield over the years," said Yasemin Brett, Enfield Council's cabinet member for community, arts and culture.

"We've got a brilliant programme of events planned throughout October which will offer something for everyone, so I'd urge residents to get out and about and explore some of the great events we're hosting," she added.

To find out more about the events for Black History Month, visit <https://new.enfield.gov.uk/services/your-council/equality-and-diversity/community-cohesion/>

COMPETITIONS

Win a ticket to Joe's show

FOR the first time ever Joe Brown is going out on the road by himself – no band, just great music and fantastic stories from nearly six decades in music.

Joe is known for being one of the UK's original rock 'n' roll guitar pioneers. Now he's become a leading light for and staunch champion of the ukulele after his most recent recording, The Ukelele Album.

His is a remarkable journey. From the days of music hall and growing up in an East End pub, through the skiffle era of Lonnie Donegan and then jumping straight into rock 'n' roll, Joe's seen it all.

Keith Richards respects him, George Harrison loved him, The Beatles supported him and Mark Knopfler plays with him.

Joe's special guest on the tour will be Henry Gross, founder of hit US group Sha Na Na.

We have three pairs of tickets to give away for Joe's show at Edmonton's Millfield Theatre on Tuesday, October 11. To enter our competition, answer this question:

● What was the title of Joe's last album?

- a) The Ukelele Album
- b) The Drum Album
- c) The Harmonica Album

For a full list of dates, see <http://www.joebrown.co.uk>

□ Send your answer, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to: Joe Brown Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Joe Brown" in the subject line, by noon on Thursday, October 6.

Great prizes to be won as Bear Grylls returns to Trent Park

Muddy marvellous

THE Bear Grylls Survival Race returns to Trent Park next month – and we have two family packs and a pair of race tickets to give away.

Now in its second year, the occasion includes 5km and 10km Survival Races, a Bear Grylls Kids Race and the Bear Grylls Outdoor Festival, offering a day out for the whole family.

The event, which features Vogue Williams and Kissy Sell-Out as celebrity Emcees, takes place on October 8 and 9.

The survival races feature custom-created obstacles, all inspired by the life of adventurer Bear Grylls himself.

In the kids' race, for children aged four to 13, youngsters will battle their way through jungle, desert, mountains and Arctic zones all in one course.

And the Bear Grylls Outdoor Festival will offer something for everyone, from bushcraft survival demonstrations, 180ft bungee jumping, segway tracks, a Royal Marine climbing wall, a display of birds of prey and much more.

For your chance to be a winner, just answer this simple question:

● Bear Grylls is

- a) An adventurer
- b) A civil servant
- c) A postman

Send answers, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or email it, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, by noon on Thursday, October 6. Mark your entries Bear Grylls Family Pack or Bear Grylls Race depending on which prize you want. Note that the kids' and 5km and 10km races are only on Saturday.

Join Leo on a trip back to the 1950s

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

DIG out your brothel creepers, dust off your drainpipes, slick back your hair and relive the decade that saw the birth of rock 'n' roll.

The 1950s gave us unforgettable fashion and memorable music and reviving memories of the era at Edmonton's Millfield Theatre on Thursday night is a live music adaptation of the popular BBC Radio 2 series, Sounds of the 50s.

Top saxophone player Leo Green, who presents the radio show, swaps spinning classic 1950s' hits by Elvis, Buddy Holly, Bill Haley, Chuck Berry, Little Richard and other rock legends to perform them on stage with a talented band of professional musicians and singers.

And he has the perfect pedigree for reprising those golden recordings, having played sax with iconic rocker Jerry Lee Lewis, who described Green as "the greatest sax player I have ever worked with".

The 44-year-old joined Van Morrison's band from 1995 to 2000 and has worked with an impressive line-up of artists including Jools Holland, Paul Weller, Ronnie Wood, Lionel Richie and many others.

He also founded the BluesFest, which is now in its sixth year, and has written and produced numerous series of BBC Radio 2 shows on everyone from Sammy Davis Junior to George Gershwin.

The Sounds of the 50s show weaves Leo's stories and sax-playing around a megamix of classic hits by Presley, Haley and Holly as well as James Brown, Sam Cooke, Ray Charles, Fats Domino, Haley, Frankie Laine, The Drifters, Frankie Lymon & The Teenagers, Julie London, Peggy Lee, Cliff Richard, Neil Sedaka, Jackie Wilson and many others.

"The 50s really was the decade that musically had everything and when you see and hear the songs performed live on stage there is simply nothing like it," says Green.

Deeply absorbing disaster movie

DEEPWATER HORIZON
(12A, 108 mins)

ON April 20, 2010, an explosion on the oil drilling rig Deepwater Horizon, located in the Gulf of Mexico, resulted in the deaths of 11 platform workers.

When the structure eventually sank, oil continued to gush from the sea floor for almost three months.

Pivotal moments from this harrowing, real-life disaster are recreated with testosterone-fuelled swagger by director Peter Berg in the action-packed thriller Deepwater Horizon.

Based on a newspaper article about the platform's final heart-stopping hours, the film reunites Berg with leading man Mark Wahlberg after their successful collaboration on wartime drama Lone Survivor.

The sense of dread that pervades early scenes – the calm before the digitally enhanced storm – is palpable.

Scriptwriters Matthew Michael Carnahan and Matthew Sand hastily sketch characters so we have emotional ties to several rig workers before the initial devastating blast.

Wahlberg looks stoic in the face of certain death, flexing his muscles as an action-packed second half demonstrates Berg's brio behind the camera.

Co-star Kurt Russell has excellent form with on-screen pyrotechnics – he valiantly battled the raging inferno of Backdraft back in 1991 – and forges a pleasing on-screen partnership here.

Engineer Mike Williams (Wahlberg) kisses his beautiful wife Felicia (Kate Hudson) goodbye before he boards a helicopter to the BP-owned and operated drilling platform Deepwater Horizon located approximately 40 miles off the coast of Louisiana.

Other passengers include installation manager Jimmy Harrell (Kurt Russell) and third mate Andrea Fleytas (Gina Rodriguez).

"This is the well from hell, girl," a co-worker tells Andrea, half joking.

Once they land, Jimmy becomes concerned that BP officials, including well site leader Donald Vidrine (John Malkovich), have not carried out sufficient checks to ensure the drill is operating safely.

Jimmy orders a test, which brings back concerning yet inconclusive results, and reluctantly he gives the go-ahead to continue drilling. Crew members including Jason Anderson (Ethan Suplee) and Caleb Holloway (Dylan O'Brien) try to make up for lost time, but a massive blowout tears through the 121-metre-long rig.

Survivors of the initial blast race against time to lower lifeboats into the water before flames engulf the entire structure.

Deepwater Horizon captures the chaos of that fateful day and the courage of men and women who risked their lives to save friends and co-workers from the rig's twisted metal.

During some of the big set pieces, it's hard to discern one figure from another in the smoke and flames and frenetic camerawork could induce motion sickness especially in the IMAX format.

The surprisingly brisk running time doesn't allow for huge amounts of character development before the special effects department takes over, but our heartstrings are certainly plucked when key characters die in the inferno.

A heartfelt tribute to the lost crew over the end credits brings the film to a sombre close.

Terlings Park the perfect location for London commuters Phil and Carolyn

A commuting couple has found the perfect rural retreat for their young family at a Bloor Homes development in Hertfordshire.

For the last six years, Phil and Carolyn Offord have lived in a rented two-bedroom flat on the site of Arsenal's former Highbury football stadium in Islington, North London.

In many ways, it was the perfect home for Gunners fans Phil, 43, and Carolyn, 44.

But following the arrival of their sons, Cooper, 3, and Louis, 1, the couple decided it was time to move out of the city and escape to the country, while still remaining within easy commuting distance of the capital.

And their search led them to Terlings Park in Gilston, which boasts an idyllic countryside location as well as excellent rail links to the capital.

Trains from nearby Harlow Town take just over 30 minutes to get to Liverpool Street Station, from where it is only a short walk to marketing director Carolyn's office in Shoreditch.

Phil, a retail manager who works across the London area, said: "As an Arsenal fan it was great to live on the site of the old ground and within walking distance of the new stadium, but with two young kids we felt it was time to get out of the city in search of some fresh country air, a bigger house and a more relaxed lifestyle.

"What we were looking for was somewhere with a commute to Liverpool Street and Terlings Park fitted the bill perfectly.

"What really attracted us to the development was the layout of the houses and the fact there is lots of open space around them. Not every square inch of land is filled with houses, which is quite often the case at new developments, particularly in this part of the country.

"As someone who grew up in a small village in Scotland and has lived in big cities for the past 15 years, it's great to be back in the country and to see wild ducks waddling around when I look out of the window.

"We have the best of both worlds here. We live in a small village with a strong community feel but just down the road is Harlow which has the train station, great retail parks and all the facilities you require. And I can still get to Arsenal home games in about an hour."

Phil and Carolyn purchased their new five-bedroom detached Montagu house for around £700,000, with a mortgage which is costing them about the same per month as they were paying in rent for their flat in Islington.

Phil added: "We have got a lot more for our money here and one of the things that drew us to this house was the three-storey layout. The boys have got the top floor to themselves, we are going to turn one room on the first floor into a cinema/family room and then on the ground floor we have got the large kitchen for entertaining."

There is currently a selection of four and five-bedroom homes available at Terlings Park, priced from £690,000. Call 01279 883814 or visit bloorhomes.com for more information.

Offering a solid alternative

By Darren Cassey

THE Kia Optima has been, by Kia's own admission, underperforming in the sales department. Part of the problem is that the small company hasn't had the factory capacity to offer Europe-specific models, but that's all changed now.

Kia has pledged to build new models for new markets and the Optima Sportswagon is part of fulfilling that goal. In Europe, estate cars make up two-thirds of sales and 75 per cent of fleet sales in this segment. Kia wanted in on the action, which is why it's built its first D-segment estate.

Aside from being 5mm taller, it's mostly as you were with the saloon. Dynamically, the only change is in the suspension – damper rates and alignment settings have been tweaked to accommodate a rearward shift in weight distribution and to cope with the potential for heavier loads.

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, but it's fair to say Kia's hit the nail on the head stylistically. The look is clearly inspired by European rivals, but it has a character that's often lacking from high-volume manufacturers' cars.

In an Olympic year, it's perhaps apt that the Korean manufacturer has a big hurdle to overcome. Brand image is something that takes time to build and, in this segment, it's almost as important for buyers to be able to say they own a BMW, Mercedes-Benz or Audi as it is to have a decent car.

Kia's in a good place to leap it, however. Opening the Optima's door, you'll notice it's heavy and closes with a satisfying thud. The interior is mostly on a par with the Germans, the wheel feels good in your hand if a little uncomfortable in GT-Line spec and the centre console and buttons have the look and feel of more premium rivals.

The only letdown is the shiny, cheap-feeling, rough plastic that's splashed across the top of the dashboard. It's an odd, featureless slab in an otherwise upmarket interior.

For those who put quality, or just being a bit different, above showing off to others, the Kia won't feel like a compromise.

In the D-segment, space and practicality are big selling points – it's why estate variants are so popular. The Optima Sportswagon's cargo space measures up at 552 litres with the rear seats up and 1,686 litres with the seats down. This measures favourably against many rivals including the BMW 3-Series and Audi A4, although it's a good chunk less spacious than a Volkswagen Passat.

The entry level Optima Sportswagon starts at £22,295 and that feels like great value when you're sat behind the wheel. It would be fair to say the Optima's interior is almost on a par with the likes of BMW and isn't as far behind more premium manufacturers as you might think.

Considering it undercuts both by a few thousand pounds, those looking to save the pennies really only have badge snobbery to overcome.

The Optima's trump card, however, is Kia's seven-year or 100,000-mile warranty. It helps bring running costs right down and gives welcome peace of mind.

This car has fleet owners firmly in its sights. First and foremost, this estate model was added to the line-up so Kia could get a slice of that sweet fleet ownership pie.

Couple that with decent fuel economy and you've got a solid alternative to the established European marques.

The Optima Sportswagon will also appeal to those with large families and perhaps a large dog. It provides enough space to keep the little ones comfortable on long trips and the large boot is ideal for keeping a pet away from your nice seats without feeling guilty about stuffing it in a claustrophobic boot.

BOSS BEMOANS POOR FINISHING

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

MANAGER Mauricio Pochettino has urged his Tottenham Hotspur side to be more clinical in front of goal even though they beat Middlesbrough 2-1 on Saturday to climb into second place in the Premier League table.

Spurs were utterly dominant in the first half at the Riverside and two goals from Son Heung-Min put them in control.

However, they were unable to take advantage of numerous chances to make the game safe and were ultimately forced to survive some anxious moments after Ben Gibson pulled one back for the hosts before their victory was confirmed.

"We played very well in the first half," Pochettino said. "I think the way we played always pleases and it is true that this is how we want to play always, but we need to improve our percentage in front of goal, to be more clinical and score more. We created a lot of chances.

"If you don't score more goals then the second half can be difficult to manage. You always allow the possibility of the opponent scoring a goal and then you can suffer. But I'm happy with the victory, we fully deserved the win after the 90 minutes and I'm very pleased for everyone.

"We wanted to follow in the same way in the second half but we were aggressive, more focused. I'm not so happy in the second half because we lost it 1-0, but we need to look forward, improve and learn.

"It's fantastic for us and, of course, for Sonny himself that he got the goals. He scored twice, gave us the three points and that's important. But it's a collective effort and that's always most important for us. We need that mentality."

Son's two goals continued the excellent form that he has shown so far this season, with the South Korean international proving his worth to the team after struggling to make an impact during his first year at the club.

Both his goals on Saturday were excellent strikes, with the first seeing him collect Vincent Janssen's lay-off before evading two challenges and firing home, while the second saw him find the net with a curling shot into the top corner from just inside the box.

"I shocked myself for the second goal," he said. "I train every day for this type of shot. I lost the ball, but I then got it back and took the shot.

"I feel very good. I felt good last season as well, but I got injured. I try my best every game. Last season was my first in the Premier League and now I want to do better. It's not finished, I look forward and will work hard every day for Tottenham."

Emphatic triumph ends losing streak

HARINGEY BOROUGH brought their poor run of form to an end in fine style by romping to a 4-1 victory at home to Ware in Ryman League Division One North on Monday night.

Borough came into the match on the back of a run of six successive defeats – including Saturday's 2-0 loss at home to VCD Athletic in the league – but they put that behind them in impressive fashion with a dominant display which saw the hosts take control from the start.

All the goals came in the first half, with Dean Fenton giving Borough the lead on 20 minutes. This clearly lifted the hosts and Ralston Gabriel doubled their advantage in the 25th minute before Rakim Richards added a third three minutes later.

With Borough utterly dominant, Daniel Aristidou further extended their lead on 44 minutes – only for Brian Haule to hand Ware a lifeline by pulling one back almost immediately.

Following the drama of the opening 45 minutes, the second half proved to be a far quieter affair with the hosts largely content to sit back on their large lead as they cruised to a victory which saw them climb up into 17th place in the table.

Monday's impressive win was in stark contrast to Borough's performance two days earlier, when visiting VCD were able to cruise to victory.

Kris Newby set the visitors on the way to maximum points by opening the scoring on 19 minutes before Jamie Guy wrapped up their win by adding a second 13 minutes from time.

Haringey Borough go to Romford on Saturday (3pm), before visiting Brightlingsea Regent on Tuesday night (7.45pm).

Positive scan results raise hopes of rapid return for Kane

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR have been handed a boost after scans revealed that Harry Kane's ankle injury is not as bad as was initially feared.

The striker suffered ligament damage during Spurs' Premier League win over Sunderland earlier this month and was expected to be out of action for up to eight weeks.

However, hopes are now high that Kane will be able to return sooner than this – although head coach Mauricio Pochettino refused to put a time scale on any possible comeback.

"We've received the report about the scan and it's much, much better than we expected," he said. "Maybe we can reduce the time that he is out for, but we are happy. The scan was very positive, we are very happy about this news but still we cannot give a time for how long his recovery will be.

"We are happy because the scan was better than we expected. I'm not a doctor, it's difficult to say how long, but it's true that it's much, much better than we expected and that is very positive."

Kane is part of a lengthy injury list at Tottenham, with Eric Dier, Danny Rose and Moussa Dembele (all hamstringing) and Moussa Sissoko (concussion) also sidelined for last night's Champions League clash against CSKA Moscow.

However, Pochettino is not overly worried about the absentees and believes that Spurs have the strength in depth in their squad to cope with the missing players.

"They are OK but we don't want to take a risk," he added. "We have a lot of games ahead and it doesn't make sense to take a risk now.

"When you play in the Champions League, a new competition for us, it's important to have a strong squad and to sign players who can compete between each other.

"We are competitive, now we are a bit unlucky with injuries but we have depth in the squad and it's a good opportunity for the players who don't play too much. In football the squad is important."

FREE Access to University Level 3 Courses at CONEL

Complete your Level 3 for FREE and progress to university!

If you take out an Advanced Learning Loan for your Access to University course - and go on to complete your degree course - you won't have to repay your Advanced Learning Loan!

An Access course takes one year to complete and normally costs about £4,000 – so it's a great saving to make.

The Access courses we offer at CONEL are:

Access to Computing | Access to Engineering | Access to Nursing | Access to Science

“My Advanced learning loan was worth every penny, I'm a student midwife now!”

Julie Rookley | Access to Nursing

“I achieved First Class Honours in my Biomedical Science degree and I am now a PhD student in prostate cancer.”

Dona Mannaperuma | Access to Science

“I'm studying Mechanical Engineering at Bradford University. I'll complete my degree in four years and spend one year in industry.”

John Alimi | Access to Engineering

“No other college offered such an excellent Access course. The course gave me just what I needed to get to King's College and progress into a job. I've got nothing but praise for the College and its teachers.”

Charlie Baker | Access to IT

Your Access course will be made up of around 20 modules covering all the knowledge, research and essay-writing skills you need for your first year at university.

You may already have your 90-credit Level 3 Diploma and this combined with an Access Course will make you an even more attractive candidate for many universities.

To find out more about an Advanced Learning Loan and Access to University courses come into Enrolment this week.
